Government Prepares To Seize Goodyear Rubber Plant

Unionists Defy Back-to-Work Order of WLB

18-Day-Old Stoppage by 16,700 Workers Given to Economic Stabilizer

By LARRY SMITH

AKRON, O., July 3 (AP)—Government seizure of strike-paralyzed Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company plants moved a step nearer today as the National War Labor Board handed the eighteen-day-old stoppage by 16,700 workers to Economic Stabilizer William H. Davis.

That was but one of the fast-moving developments in this labor-troubled rubber capital on Independence day eve.

Sharing the spotlight with the WLB's action, which came just a day after that agency had erased defiant Goodyear workers' rights to vacations and shift differentials, were:

1—Notification of the WLB by 16,500 Firestone Tire and Rubber Company employees, on strike since Sunday, that they "would not return to work under present conditions," thus defying a back-to-work order.

2—An almost "open rebellion" by Summit County Draft Boards against recent instructions to draft men involved in the Goodyear strike.

3—Announcement by four Akron banks that rubber workers, unpaid since the strikes began, cashed war bonds yesterday $43,000 in excess of the normal "turn-in" rate.

4—Disclosure by Goodyear that the stoppage at its plants had resulted in the loss of 272,000 tires, and a Firestone announcement that its production lines were losing 14,400 tires and 13,500 tubes daily.

Referral of the Goodyear case to Davis by WLB was regarded as the first definite step toward seizure of the plants by the army or navy—both are vitally interested in tires and other military equipment produced here—on orders by President Truman.

Goodyear CIO-United Rubber Worker defiance of the WLB was backed up today by the Firestone branch of the same union when Isaac H. Watson, local president, informed the national board "the company has shown no willingness to reach an agreement on any of them," and urged the WLB "not to resort to the same repressive tactics used in the Goodyear case, but rather order an investigation into the merits of the controversy."

Yesterday C. V. Wheeler, president of the Goodyear local, and Watson had joined in asking a Senate committee to "immediately start consideration of the merit of disputed points between the workers and these companies."

B-29 Task Force Makes New Raids

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—A very large task force of B-29s smashed anew at industrial targets in the Japanese homeland in night raids, the Twentieth air force announced today.

The raids took place July 3, United States time (July 4, Japanese time). Details of the results were held up pending the return of the crews. The force of 500 or more Superfortresses based in the Marianas attacked urban industries at Himeji on Honshu island, Tokushima, Takamatsu and Kochi, all on Shikoku island.

The target on Honshu, Himeji, is a major railroad terminal with connections to the North Honshu coast. The city had a prewar population of 104,000 and was considered an important textile center as well as a heavy producer of electrical equipment and explosives.

Japs May Be Saving Planes To Use When Their Homeland Is Invaded

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press News Analyst
Varying conclusions are drawn from failure of Japanese air power to figure significantly in the war except for suicide attacks on shipping and occasional nuisance raids ashore in the Okinawa sector. In China, Burma, and over the Malay peninsula and now on oil-rich Borneo, Nipponese planes have cut no important figure.

Japanese propagandists now assert homeland aerial defense is being built in bomb-proof underground factories. That does not account for the fact that despite heavy enemy losses American official estimates credit Japan with as many or more ships as she had early in the war.

She may be hoarding them at home for use when the assault

Basic Foreign Policy of America To Remain Unchanged, Byrnes Says

TAKES OATH

JAMES F. BYRNES

New Secretary To Consult Senate and House on Foreign Affairs

By HOWARD FLEGGER

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Squinting into the sunshine on a White House terrace, James P. Byrnes took the oath as secretary of state today and then made a plea for world-wide tolerance. "Today there can be no doubt that the peoples of this war-ravaged earth want to live in a peaceful world," he said. "But the supreme task of statesmanship the world over is to help them understand that they can have peace and freedom only if they tolerate and respect the rights of others to opinions, feelings and ways of life which they do not and cannot share."

Byrnes, attended by President Truman and the outgoing Secretary of State, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., was sworn in before an applauding throng of the nation's highest officials.

Consensus of Responsibilities
"I enter upon my duties deeply conscious of the great and grave responsibilities," said the man who served President Roosevelt as unofficial "assistant president" through most of the war. The oath-taking put him in to the twin role of secretary of state and the man next in line for the presidency.

Byrnes said he has been assured of the "wise counsel" of former Secretary of State Cordell Hull and of the advice of Stettinius. A short time before the oath was administered the White House announced that Stettinius will have offices in the executive mansion to carry out his duties as chief American delegate to the United Nations organization.

Byrnes asked State department employees to "remain at their posts and carry on as usual" while he is out of the country with President Truman attending the forthcoming Big Three conference.

So great was the throng in Mr. Truman's office to witness the swearing in ceremony that the president himself suggested they move outside on the lawn. The oath was administered by Chief Justice Richard S. Whaley of the court of claims.

Applauded by Crowd
As the crowd applauded the oath-taking, President Truman raised his hand, smiling, and said:

"Quiet now. The new secretary wants to make a speech."

Byrnes read from a prepared statement in which he pledged himself to handle foreign affairs in close consultation with the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate and the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House.

"A change in the secretaryship of state at this time," he said, "involves no change in the basic principles of our foreign policy in the prosecution of the war and in the endeavor for enduring peace which have been charted by the late President Roosevelt and reaffirmed by President Truman."

Political Group
Is Established
By War Veterans

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—A group of American war veterans today established the "Veterans Political Committee, Inc., of the United States (non-partisan)."

They said the organization aimed at "good government, returned to the people themselves, freed from political bossism," and prevention of disunity among the nation's 15,000,000 former fighting men.

The group has established temporary national headquarters in New York, and announced that chapters already had been formed in New York, Buffalo, Los Angeles, Troy, N. Y., Albany, N. Y., Dallas, Detroit, Raleigh, N. C., and Charleston, W. Va.

Capt. Jerry A. Freeman, executive secretary, said the group was not "another political party," adding:

"We don't plan to enter candidates of our own for political office. However, we hope increasingly to force the political parties to put up the very best-qualified candidates."

Capt. Freeman said the V.P.C. should not be considered a competitor of existing veteran groups, but of the political arm of all American veterans, drawing members from both organized and unorganized ex-servicemen.

Senate Committee
Approves Bretton
Woods Monetary Plan

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee late today approved 14 to 4 legislation enabling United States participation in the Bretton Woods monetary plan.

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) said the legislation, already adopted by the House, will be taken up by the Senate July 16, a week before debate opens on the United Nations charter.

SO PROUDLY WE HAILED...
TODAY—Independence day, 1945—the American flag flies over many Japanese possessions in the Pacific, thanks to American carrier plane pilots who, with our submarine crews, were the first to carry the war deep into enemy territory, hitting him hard and repeatedly. These pilots sought out Japan's vultures and today have all but driven them from the Western Pacific skies.

State Governors Will Be Asked To Back Charter

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., July 3 (AP)—The Thirty-seventh conference of state governors will be asked tomorrow to approve a resolution endorsing the United Nations World Security Charter as drafted and asking "prompt" approval by the United States Senate.

The resolution, approved unanimously late today by the Conference's Resolutions committee, declares that the charter "lays a firm foundation upon which future progress of world organization for lasting peace can be made."

"No more worthwhile achievement could be realized by freedom-loving men and women," it added.

The Resolutions committee also highlighted another day of speech-making by state chief executives in which major problems confronting the states and nation in the change-over from war to peace received exclusive attention.

Gov. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, the last speaker tonight, urged that federal grants-in-aid to states for unemployment insurance be continued, and that the reversion period be made a permanent part of the Social Security structure.

Bushfield Asserts United Nations Charter Has at Least Six Flaws

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Senator Bushfield (R-SD) told the Senate today the United Nations charter contains a half-dozen "glaring faults," but that he will support it nevertheless.

"I shall support it," he said, "because I dare not face my soldier son nor the millions of soldier sons throughout the world, if I fail to do what I can to stop the senseless, maniacal slaughter and planned murder of my fellow men."

Yet he served notice that "wherever and whenever proposed," he will oppose what he termed delegation of Congress' power to declare war. The statement was accepted as notice of his intention to seek reservations when the treaty comes before the Senate for ratification, possibly late this month.

Before Bushfield took the floor, Senator Hawkes (R-NJ) released a statement announcing he will vote to ratify the charter and expressing hope the ratification vote would be unanimous. Its approval by more than the necessary two-thirds majority is assured.

Bushfield listed the following as "jurisdictional faults" in the treaty:

1. "It delegates power which we

Slave Laborers In Native Hospital Are Burned Alive

By RUSSELL BRINES

WITH ALLIED FORCES NEAR BALIKPAPAN, BORNEO, July 3 (AP)—The burning alive of starving and sick Japanese slave laborers in a native hospital was charged against the Japanese army today by Netherlands officials.

The Japanese, the officials said, set fire to the native hospital before driving all able-bodied natives northward in the direction of the Samarinda oil fields.

Only two hundred natives, including two women, have been found so far in this area. They were placed in a compound maintained by a Netherlands Indies Civil Affairs Unit. Nearly all are pathetically beaten skeletons.

Two men escaped from the burning hospital where an uncounted number were burned alive. Australian soldiers found the two huddled in foxholes as they reached the site along the road leading to the Sepinggan airstrip. One had an old untreated leg infection from which bones protruded. He gasped out part of the story, then died.

The other lay dying this afternoon in the Nieuw hospital unable to talk. The Australians were told that Japanese soldiers strode into the flimsy wooden hospital where they kept slave laborers who were too weak to work but gave them no attention or medicine. The Japanese announced they intended to burn the hospital and that all those able to walk could escape. Only two managed to stagger outside as the torch was applied.

Baltimore Meat
Dealer Denies Offering Bribe

BALTIMORE, July 3 (AP)—A Baltimore meat wholesaler, on trial with a Kansas City packer on a charge of carrying on a two-year black market meat conspiracy, denied today that he had offered $20,000 to an Office of Price Administration investigator and testified that OPA representatives had attempted to obtain money from him.

The trial of Jacob Spevak, the Baltimore dealer, and the United States Packing Company and its owners, Sam Simon and his two sons, Albert and Melvin, concluded its second day and recessed until Thursday.

Jesse Sachse, Maryland OPA investigator, appearing as the last government witness, told the jury Spevak had offered him $20,000 a year to work with him and "fix the case" after he visited the Baltimorean last January to obtain information about the Kansas City firm.

Spevak, however, testified that he had made no such offer but that through one of his former employees, Moe Goldberg, OPA investigators had sought repeatedly to obtain money from him.

A Baltimore City detective, called for the defense, testified that Goldberg had tried to get $1,000 from Spevak on the ground that it was a bribe demanded by an OPA worker.

The detective added, however, that he had informed Spevak that after an investigation he believed Goldberg "wanted the money for his own pocket" and no bribe actually was demanded.

Two other employees of the Spevak firm testified that Goldberg had talked to them of making some "easy money" by going to the OPA and offering to appear against Spevak.

Harry L. Hopkins Gives Up Position As Confidential Adviser to Truman

Steps Out of Government Service, Declaring, "I Must Take a Rest"

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, confidential White House adviser and wartime emissary for two presidents, stepped out of public life today because "I must take a rest."

In frail health for several years, Hopkins turned in his resignation as special assistant to President Truman. The latter accepted it in a letter expressing regret and praise "for all your great and patriotic service to our country."

The resignation came at a time when the president was preparing for his first big three conference with Premier Churchill and Marshal Stalin. Hopkins was to have attended that conference in the same advisory capacity in which he accompanied the late President Roosevelt to all previous Big Three meetings.

The ailing White House confidant returned to Washington recently from a special mission to Moscow, undertaken at the request of President Truman. He has made many such secret trips since the war started, despite his failing health.

In his letter of resignation, Hopkins wrote:

"The time has come when I must take a rest. I have therefore reached the decision that I should now retire from government service. Hence I shall not be able to accompany you to the Berlin area for your impending conference."

In accepting the resignation President Truman wrote:

"There are few people in the United States who know more fully than I the substantial role you have played in the prosecution of our war."

Hopkins came into the government as Works Progress Administration director in 1935 and immediately became one of the closest advisers to President Roosevelt.

He left WPA in 1938 when Roosevelt appointed him secretary of commerce, a post he held until late in 1940 when he stepped out of the government to take over operation of the nation's then developing lend-lease program.

He became adviser and special assistant to Mr. Roosevelt in 1941 and continued the role in the Truman administration. At one period in his government service he lived in the White House spending his nights and days under the same roof with President Roosevelt.

Steps Are Taken To Reduce Loans
In Stock Market

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board took two major steps today to reduce loans in the stock market and thereby cut down on speculation:

1. It raised the margin requirements from fifty to seventy-five per cent, the highest ever. The change, effective July 5, will reduce the size of new loans to finance purchases of stock exchange securities. It means that when a person buys stocks on credit, he must put up a margin of seventy-five per cent and can borrow only twenty-five per cent from his broker or broker.

2. The board announced another change, effective July 16, designed to squeeze some of the existing credit out of the market. If a person holds several securities in a single account, and sells some of them, he must use the proceeds to bring the margin on the remaining securities up to seventy-five per cent.

"Quieting Influence"
The Federal Reserve Board has often said that raising margin requirements would not eliminate speculation because it would not affect cash sales and cash is "the important factor" in the rising market.

A spokesman repeated this tonight but said it is hoped that the new regulations will have "some effect" as a quieting influence.

The last change in margin requirements was in February when they were raised from forty to fifty per cent. Prior to that they were at forty per cent for more than seven years.

The increased margins also apply to short sales.

They affect credit extended by both brokers and banks to finance purchases of stock exchange securities.

Technical Changes Made
Federal reserve officials have said more than once that raising margin requirements would not necessarily eliminate speculation in the stock market because such action has no effect on cash sales—and cash is plentiful.

The reserve board also announced technical changes in the regulations, effective July 16, to "simplify and strengthen" the supporting rules.

A new provision requires that the proceeds of sales of securities in accounts that are under-margined under the new requirements "shall be used to the extent necessary to increase the margin on the remaining securities in the account until they are on a seventy-five per cent basis."

This rule applies to loans under both regulation T and regulation U. Except to this extent, neither regulation requires that existing accounts or loans be brought up to seventy-five per cent.

Americans Asked To Honor "Creed Of Liberty" on Independence Day

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—In a fourth of July statement, President Truman tonight called on the nation to honor the "Creed of Liberty" which its fighting sons have carried throughout the world. His statement follows:

"Again this year we celebrate July 4 as the anniversary of the day one hundred and sixty-nine years ago on which we declared our independence as a sovereign people."

"In this year of 1945, we have pride in the combined might of this nation which has contributed significantly to the defeat of the enemy in Europe. We have confidence that, under providence, we soon may crush the enemy in the Pacific. We have humility for the guidance that has been given us of God in serving his

Seventh Division Advances Three Miles; Positions Are Consolidated

Sepinggan Airfield Cap- tured; Japs Pull Out of Strong Positions and Take to Ridges

By SPENCER DAVIS

MANILA, Wednesday, July 4 (AP)—Australian Seventh division troops in a three-mile advance to the northeast captured Sepinggan airfield by nightfall Monday, the second day of the Balikpapan invasion, to bring Java, heart of the Dutch East Indies, within fighter range of Allied planes for the first time in more than three years.

As the Aussies consolidated their left flank positions atop a vital ridge overlooking fire-ravaged Balikpapan, the rapid advance of other Digger units along a hard-surfaced two-lane highway brought possession of the 4,600-foot asphalt paved runway only 510 statute miles from Soerabaja.

Royal Australian engineers prepared to fill bomb craters and smooth the airstrip for accommodation of land-based planes as quickly as possible.

Advance on Airfield
A second enemy airfield is at Manger, only six miles ahead of the driving Australians. While Melbourne radio broadcasts have claimed its capture, there has been no confirmation from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters.

The Japanese defenders of Balikpapan, where the Australians landed Sunday, followed their customary practice and pulled out of strong prepared positions on the beach and retired to a series of ridges overlooking the town itself.

Today's communique made no mention of further progress inland and a spokesman said there had been little change of position from the first day.

Cavalry commands, components of the Seventh division, met heavy machinegun fire from six enemy positions when they crossed the Klansaan river Sunday night to begin their push on Sepinggan.

Aerial and naval bombardment knocked out Japanese coastal defense guns and dual purpose anti-aircraft guns at the landing beach but there was no indication that enemy mortar and artillery fire in the hinterland had been silenced.

Balikpapan continued to blaze as burning oil sent a thick plume over the city.

Bombers Pound Bridges
While Rear Admiral Russell S. Berkey's Seventh fleet cruisers and destroyers supported by carrier planes volleyed hundreds of rounds of shells into the oil town, more than 100 Liberator and scores of Mitchell and Lightning of the Thirteenth and Fifth air forces pounded enemy bridges, barracks and troop concentrations in the target area.

In addition, planes kept blanketed and unoperational various airfields on Celebes, across the Makassar strait from Borneo, and in the Bandjermasin area of Southern Borneo. Four small enemy craft were destroyed in the straits.

On Western Borneo, the Australian Ninth division, supported by navy rocket fire, advanced north of Beaufort to capture Lamut and pushed two miles north to within fifty miles of Jesselton. Another column, south and east of Beaufort, took strong natural positions lightly held by the Japanese at Tenom, a mile and a half west along a spur railroad serving North Borneo rubber plantations. Fifth air force Liberators, Spitfires and Kittyhawks based at Labuan worked over enemy positions from Trombulok field at Kuching to Kenangan.

Over China, a Fifth air force Liberator armed reconnaissance Saturday night hit Shanghai's Texaco oil refinery. Other Liberators and Seventh fleet Mariners hit a Hong Kong radio station and an important bridge position leading into Haiphong, Indo-China.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—In a fourth of July statement, President Truman tonight called on the nation to honor the "Creed of Liberty" which its fighting sons have carried throughout the world. His statement follows:

"In this year of 1945, we have pride in the combined might of this nation which has contributed significantly to the defeat of the enemy in Europe. We have confidence that, under providence, we soon may crush the enemy in the Pacific. We have humility for the guidance that has been given us of God in serving his will as a leader of freedom for the world.

"This year, the men and women of our armed forces, and many civilians as well, are celebrating the anniversary of American independence in other countries throughout the world. Citizens of these other lands will understand what we celebrate and why, for freedom is dear to the hearts of all men everywhere. In other lands, others will join us in honoring our declaration that all men are created equal and are endowed with certain inalienable rights—life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

"Here at home, on this July 4, 1945, let us honor our nation's creed of liberty, and the men and women of our armed forces who are carrying this creed with them throughout the world."

City Girl Finds Real Happiness On the Farm

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Several interesting letters have come to this column from happily married women offering suggestions to the ex-soldier who hesitates about marrying his city-bred fiancée, and taking her to live on the farm.

Some of these women were town-reared, but have been so contented and happy on farms they would not consider going back to city life. Two or three point out that divorces among farmers and their wives are only about one-half as high as among city folk.

An extract from one of the letters reads: "Whether the city girl would be happy as a farmer's wife would depend on if she's making one of those war-time marriages just because all her friends are doing it, or if she cares enough for a man to live up to the promises she makes at the ceremony. When I married, my family looked as if they were attending my funeral. They never expected I'd make a go of it. My husband, like the man who wrote you, was a veteran returned from the first World War. His doctor advised an out-of-door life rather than an office job.

"He took an abandoned farm in Massachusetts paying the delinquent taxes. When we arrived it was late spring. Flowers had begun to struggle through the weeds of the old garden, which must have been lovely when it was cared for. The orchard was full of apple blossoms.

The birds had a song of welcome for us. Squirrels were scampering about the new grass.

"Reluctantly my family had given me some of their old furniture; they didn't expect me to use it long. But Bill and I started painting and repairing it and I never had so much fun in my life as I did with that brush and paint-pot. I sewed curtains and made slipcovers of gay chintz. I really knew more about sewing than cooking. Bill knew how to cook in a mannish, camping fashion. He, and an assortment of cookbooks, turned me into what my children and friends now call 'a chef.'

"My family kept waiting for me to come back to them in disgust, but I continued to love Bill and like living on a farm better and better every year. We made our money in spring and summer, selling chickens, eggs, milk and butter to one of the big fashionable Berkshire towns.

Our helper was an old fellow from the village. And on the farm our three children were born and grew up and now our grandchildren—one, two and three years—come back to visit us. Bill and I still love each other devotedly, and that's been the secret of my success in becoming a happy Farm Woman."

WHEN DID LIBERTY START?

Fourth of July. Ever stop to wonder where and how "Independence Day" started? At a certain place with a certain people after a certain war. No. Long before that. Long before there were calendars or nations or laws or little boys with firecrackers. Back and back to the vague beginnings of everything. Back to the time when a man crouched, shuddering, in his cave. Dimly the fire-light played on his feasting flesh. Wild beasts had clawed that flesh. Vermin had gnawed it. Men who claimed to be his owners had left the welts of their whips upon it. Yet always there had been a part of him which neither brute nor bully could touch with fang or lash. Always they had been unable to touch his Dream.

It was a queer thing, that Dream. It did not fit into anything the man had ever seen or felt. It was like a nagging hunger, waking him by night, stalking him by day, lifting him to heights he'd never known.

For a man's dream was a hunger for Freedom. . . for a Freedom which should lift him above the grip of hunger and thirst, ignorance and fear . . . lift him from the level of a beast to the proud height of a man.

When did Liberty start? It started then—with the muddled dreams of thousands and thousands of men, covering in caves, reeking with filth, groping toward a brighter hope of peace and freedom and equality.

What does the 4th of July mean? That's what it means. Not a new thing. . . not an alien thing. . . but something that has turned and grown in the hearts of men since the world began.

And never has Liberty "just happened." Never has it come cheaply nor easily—nor can it be bought nor given nor won. It must live in the heart before it can ripen in the flesh. It must come willingly.

NO MAN CAN KNOW LIBERTY UNTIL HE HAS LONGED FOR IT, FOUGHT FOR IT, CHOSEN IT ABOVE ANY OTHER EARTHLY TREASURE. AND EACH MAN MUST DO THE CHOOSING FOR HIMSELF.

War may seem far away. As individuals we may seem remote from its sweating agony. But we are not. Liberty is a personal achievement. Each man discovers and maintains it for himself. . . not by far-flung battle lines, but by the small, obscure decisions of each hour, the vague dreams of each night, the veiled desires which he thinks are not worth while. But they are worth while. Dreams carve the way to Freedom as surely as bombs or bonds.

Dare to dream! Dare to believe that your smallest dream counts for good or evil! You carry a torch for which countless millions have died. . . died standing over kitchen sinks as surely as over battle lines. You are alerted as surely as any soldier or marine. The life or death of that dream which we call PEACE depends on your most trivial hope or act. Do not despair — march on!

HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW!

"Hollywood Preview" one of the newer radio shows to capture public interest is brought to you each Thursday at 1:30 by Rosenbaum Brothers. It's a star-studded, thrills-packed presentation of music, stars, fashions, and the latest comment on film-land. Hosted by Diana Stephanie, fashion expert, "Hollywood Preview" is an exciting 15 minute tour through the land of make-believe!

Diana chats informally with stars and starlets right on the studio lots or at the stars' favorite playgrounds in California — lovely ladies like Barbara Hale, Ruth Warwick, Martha Holliday, Marcy McGuire, Nanette Carter and Rita Corday.

Miss Corday, discovered and sponsored by Karel of California, is now being groomed for stardom on "Hollywood Preview." Maurice Raderman, R. K. O. make-up artist, tells her how to be beautiful. Renée, famous fashion designer, tells her how to dress. . . and Lillian Albertson, R. K. O.'s drama coach, discusses problems of voice control and poise — all this on "Hollywood Preview." Miss Corday will soon be seen in her first starring role in "The Falcon of San Francisco."

Stellar attractions on "Hollywood Preview" include Bill Williams, currently seen in "How Endearing Young Charms," and popular Leon Errol. Succeeding guest emcees will include Joan Bennett, Claire Trevor, Dick Powell, Paul Lukas, Philip Terry, Maureen O'Hara, Pat O'Brien.

"Hollywood Preview" makes its bow to Cumberland audiences this Thursday at 1:30 over WTBO — brought to you by Rosenbaum Brothers.

Declaration Is The Keystone

IN THE COURSE OF HUMAN EVENTS the Fourth of July has come to be looked upon as the birthday of this nation. Since no one can place his finger on the exact moment in time at which a nation is born, the occasion has gathered unto itself the collective significance of many events that took place before and after July 4, 1776, and knit them into a single tradition.

The spirit of nationalism had begun to stir on this side of the Atlantic long before 1776, but the bonds of the union were not established until long after that date. The promises to the individual which the Declaration of Independence, issued 169 years ago, contained were not fulfilled by the act of proclamation alone. As a matter of fact, retention of those promises has required unceasing vigilance.

This is a duty with which the present generation is no less concerned than were the men and women of the Eighteenth century. It is entirely fitting that the day on which the Declaration of Independence was proclaimed should be taken as the birthday of this republic. That document declared that "the rights of men are unalienable rights not to be denied any individual Americans must continue to affirm, as did Thomas Jefferson when he wrote the Declaration, that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that, when any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and their happiness."

The ultimate victory which marked the end of the Revolutionary war was a vindication of the principles that had been set forth in the Declaration of Independence. But the new sovereignty that had been proclaimed in the Declaration and established through a war had still to vindicate the principles it had set forth by giving them expression in the form of the new government. A second phase of the Revolution was not over until the Bill of Rights had been written into the new constitution.

City Damage Suit Criticism Unjust

CRITICISM of Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, because in filing a suit for the city government against the Cumberland and Allegany Gas company for reconstruction of the Valley bridge, bridge he specified $75,000 damages, does not constitute an injustice by ignoring legal facts.

For one sufficient reason, the amount specified in filing a damage suit has nothing to do with the award, if any, to be found by a jury after presentation of the case. The theory of the law in such cases is that an exact approximation equivalent to the damages incurred be awarded, regardless of what the bill of complaint might specify. In numerous cases damages in excess of the original specification have been awarded. As a matter of fact, it is difficult to conjecture the amount of damages in many cases until the existing facts are weighed against the cost of replacement.

For another reason, if revealed facts might indicate a lowered or increased damage demand, the attorney in the case has the prerogative of amending the bill of specification at any time before a hearing. It may be noted in passing that punitive damages are not involved in such a suit, this being restricted to cases wherein death or injury have resulted. Three boys were injured in the bridge explosion, and separate damage actions were filed against the gas company by their parents, and these suits have been duly settled to the satisfaction of the plaintiffs, as the news columns have recorded.

So, to criticize the city attorney on the mere score of an advance specification of the damages sought is superfluous and unjust. It falls within the category so eloquently described in the vernacular as "piddling." In all fairness we should hear no more on that score.

Housecleaning Is in Order

SINCE the waging of war is at best a wasteful process, the American people will probably not be unduly disturbed by the fact that the House committee that "millions of dollars" have been lost by the War Food Administration in the storing of food needed for war. But they have every right to be bitterly angry over the fact that as a consequence of these losses they have had to deprive themselves of eggs and other necessities of existence.

If it were simply a question of dollars, the whole transaction could be charged off to profit and loss. But it is a matter which concerns the daily life of every last man, woman and child in the United States and thus affects the necessary support of the war program.

on the home front. The mere thought that food has been permitted to rot in warehouses at a time when there is a shortage of practically every commodity is enough to stir the national indignation to the point of demanding not only action against the responsible officials, but also the adoption of remedial measures of the most drastic kind.

Boom in Farm Lands A Disturbing Factor

THE REPEATED WARNINGS that have been given about a wartime boom in farm land prices is again emphasized in a statement by the Commerce department that it has become "one of the most disturbing factors in the problem of avoiding postwar inflation."

In its magazine "Domestic Commerce," the department gave the results of a poll of the presidents of the twelve Federal Land banks. Eleven banks responded and all said farm prices are still on the rise. Seven indicated there have been some recent signs of stabilization and four could see no such signs.

Six of the banks said there is likely to be a repetition of the serious farm land situation that followed the First World War.

The Commerce department, summarizing, said the symptoms are disturbing in the upward trend of prices, in the absence of stabilization and in the volume of sales.

But it said the symptoms are good in the character of the buying (operating farmers and the great majority of purchasers), the proportion of cash used in purchases and the general status of farm indebtedness.

Nevertheless, even they, as well as the inexperienced, should proceed with the utmost caution and exercise due foresight in the purchase of farm properties.

Pool Drowning Prompts Some Suitable Action

IT STRIKES this newspaper that something more ought to be done about the deplorable drowning of a 17-year-old youth in the public swimming pool at Constitution park.

That a young man should lose his life when lifeguards and supervisors are on duty indicates that something is wrong, or lacking. There is less thought of negligence in this case than of insufficient supervision.

A case of drowning in such an instance would appear to indicate an insufficient number of lifeguards on duty.

That being the case and there should be a thorough investigation to discover whether it is steps should be immediately taken to provide a sufficient number, or such other steps as may be found necessary for whatever else may be found as the probable cause.

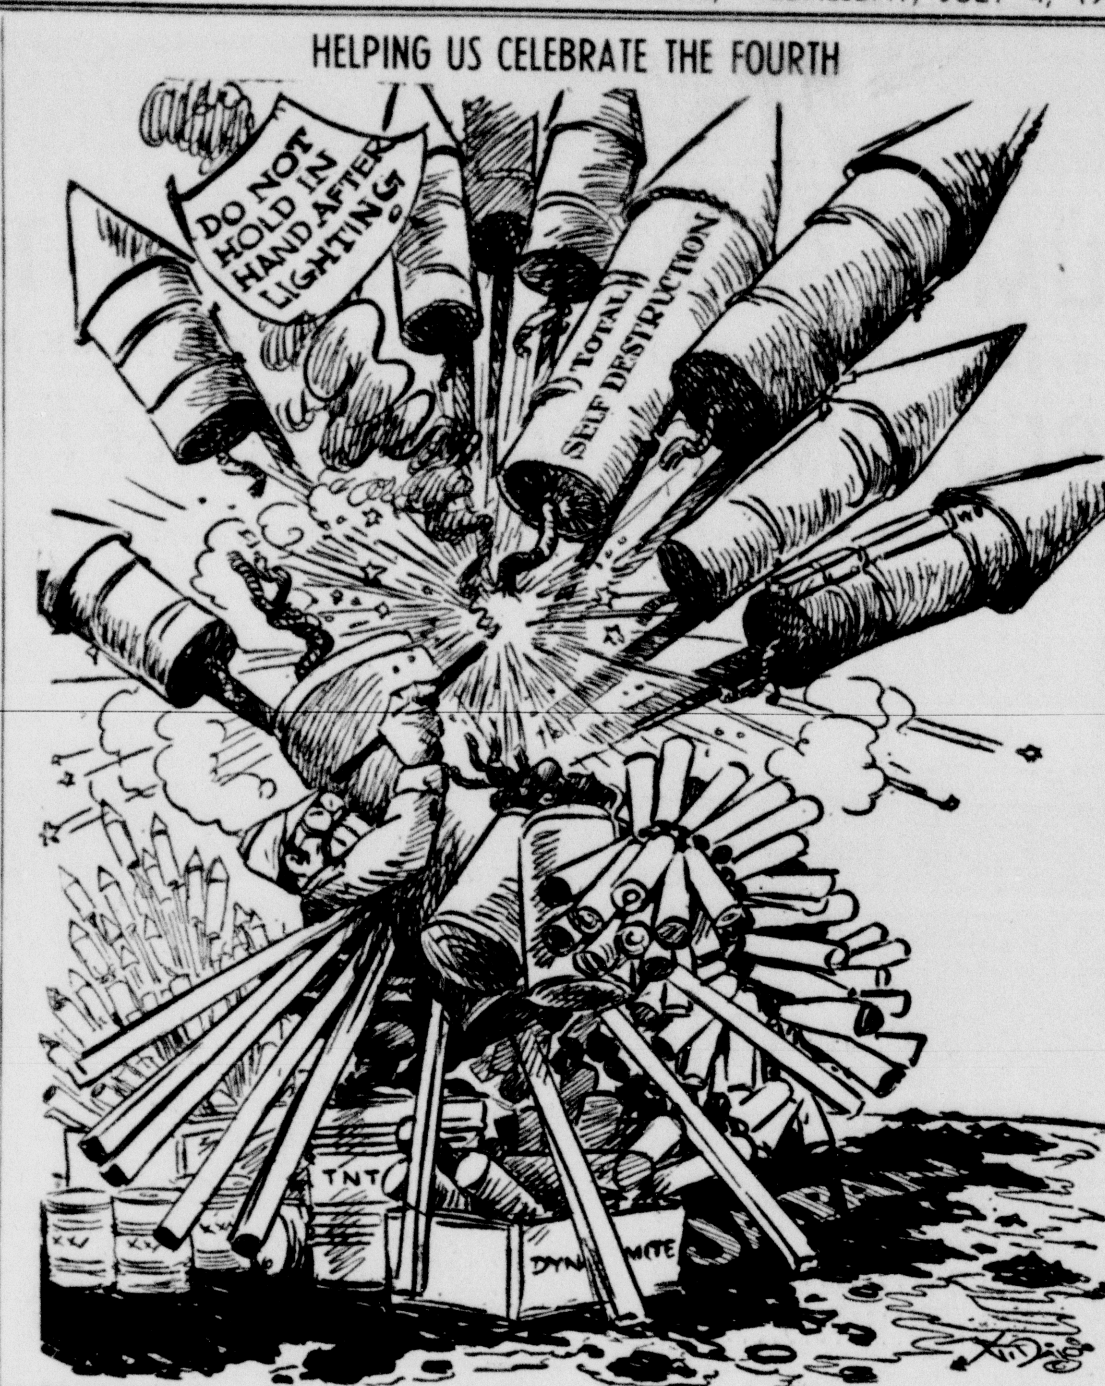

Supervision in the past has been adequate, as indicated by the record of attendance at the pool during its history with this occurring as its first fatality.

But the city authorities should see to it that all possibility of a repetition should be reduced to the lowest possible minimum. It would be better to have one or two too many lifeguards and other supervisors on hand than that another human life should be lost.

The Swiss, according to a cable item, are demolishing their army. But, we understand, they are keeping those mountains — which are really what saved 'em from Hitler's panzer divisions.

After the war we will be able to take nice, long auto rides in the country, to forget our worries. Only the postwar planners assure us, we won't have any worries.

NEUTRAL MINDS
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
I wish that more people knew of the books and writings of R. B. Cunningham Graham, the English writer. He wrote some thirty-five books, but unfortunately none of them ever went into large editions, and none gained more than a select following. But he had a great mind. He was a champion of the underdog, though he himself was a born aristocrat, and a proud one at that. But he hated injustice.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Less Meat of All Types for Civilians Is In Prospect despite Recent Promises

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON. — Last week's announcement that there will be more beef this summer than in the spring was intended to bolster public confidence in the war food chief, Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson. However, it's likely to boomerang.

Inside fact is there will be less meat of all types for the civilian population in July, August, and September than in the previous three months. War Food Administration estimates show 235 million pounds more beef, 107 million pounds more veal and thirteen million pounds more lamb. But counterbalancing this, the pork supply for the civilian market is expected to be 403 million pounds less this summer than in the spring.

Thus, though there should be 355 million additional pounds of beef, veal and lamb, the over-all meat supply will be forty-eight million pounds less.

Part of this is due to the fact that War Food Administration, in a perfect example of blundering bare-shelf policy, last year asked for a reduction in the hog crop. In addition, pork is customarily scarce during the summer. The fall hog crop is slaughtered in the fall, and the spring crop in the spring, with very little off-season hog slaughtering.

It was announced last week that the army had generously consented to reduce its set-aside of federally-inspected meats. What was not pointed out was that this decision was made last March, when the second-quarter meat allocations were decided. This "gesture" by the army may come back with renewed high demands for meat in September.

Surplus Property Secret
About the closest wall of secrecy in Washington shrouds the Surplus War Property Board, the disposal agency for the richest war booty in history. Now that public-minded ex-Senator Guy Gillette has resigned and his hard-hitting friend Wesley Sturges has been fired, few people really know what goes on inside Surplus Property.

Here, however, is one interesting inside development. The Surplus Property boys haven't published it, but they have just about decided to unload surplus in England or in British-dominated areas in exchange for local currencies rather than dollars. This means that in Egypt, the Near and Middle East, the United States will play squarely into the hands of the British sterling bloc.

In these British-dominated areas, all dollars are collected by British banks, under arrangement with Near Eastern governments, and sent to London. This makes it extremely difficult for U. S. firms to do business.

ITALIAN ENVOY?
The late Justices Brandeis and Oliver Wendell Holmes were not for their dissensions on the United States Supreme Court. They were set them apart as great, independent, non-neutral thinkers. Their minority reports stimulated an entire nation.

You can neither do yourself nor the world any good by locking yourself up and refusing all contacts. The only way we give nourishment to our own ideas is by feeding them with the ideas of others. Some of them may, at times, be indigestible—but that will only warn us to leave such ideas alone in the future!

(Projected, 1945, by The George Matthew Adams Service)

ness in Egypt and the Near East, and the British want to keep it that way. U. S. firms can't get paid except in local currencies. It is hard to get dollars in return. Meanwhile London banks are choked with dollars.

But despite this, the Surplus Property boys have decided to play along with the sterling bloc. Republicans Shoot Back Representatives George Bender, of Cleveland, and Frank Keefe, of Oshkosh, Wis., are the first Republicans to challenge the Democrats on their social program in a long time. Bender got indignant as he sat listening to Chairman Clarence Cannon of Missouri sonorously proclaim that his Appropriations Committee had not blocked the continuance of the Fair Employment Practices Committee.

Bender promptly called Democrat Cannon's bluff on this and GOP Representative Keefe stepped in to support him. Keefe recounted in great detail how the Democrats had knifed FEPC.

"I am sick and tired of this shadow boxing," Keefe stormed. "You have fifty more votes in this House than have the Republicans," he continued, "and any time the president of the United States wants this legislation passed you fellows will be whipped into line as you have in the past, and you will pass it because you have the votes to pass it. Why kid anybody any longer?"

The Wisconsin Republican then challenged Cannon to bring FEPC out for a vote before the full House. "My good friend, the gentleman from Wisconsin," said Congressman Cannon in reply. But Keefe interrupted.

"That is the way you addressed John Taber, of New York, (with whom Cannon had a fist fight)," Keefe reminded him. "You called him 'my good friend'."

"I would not put the gentleman in the same class," Cannon assured Keefe, amid laughter.

Bender Unbends
A moment later Cleveland's Bender took the floor again to point out that it was the vote of Democratic Representative Roger S. Wether, of Missouri, in the Rules Committee that prevented FEPC from getting to the floor for a full vote by the entire House.

"He (Slaughter) is from President Truman's home district," Bender climaxed.

Bender has frequently voted with the Democrats and has been a constant critic of Republican tactics and policies, but this time he laced into the Democrats. The sins of the Republican party are many, he said, but long before the New Deal was ever heard of, Republican-controlled Congresses had built up "a remarkably fine record for social legislation."

"My father used to work seven days a week, twelve hours a day. Under the Republican administration his hours were cut to eleven hours, then ten hours, then nine hours. Time and again under Republican legislatures of states in the North, improvements were adopted. There are many states in the union not dominated by Republicans now that do not have workmen's compensation laws."

possible to return displaced Europeans to their homes, nothing is yet being done for the first continental fighters against fascism—the Spanish Loyalists still penned up with their families in France.

These freedom-loving Spaniards, many of whom were hired out to French employers during the German occupation as bonded servants, formed the first and most active guerrilla bands in Occupied France. Later they joined with the French Maquis. Many were the Croix de Guerre for their valiant leadership of these underground fighters. But now that the war in Europe is ended, they are back in concentration camps, close to starvation.

At one camp they were even forbidden to eat the grass because the authorities did not want the appearance of the camp spoiled.

UNRRA could help these Spaniards, and Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson, as a member of the top UNRRA council, has been asked to recommend aid. However, he has refused to act. Meanwhile, the half-starved Spaniards cannot go back to Franco Spain on penalty of death.

Mail Bag
Mrs. W. C. Richmond, Va.—The army has reneged on the proposal to let men over 38 out of the service at once. However, the War department has assured senators who are threatening legislation to force the brass hats to act, that men over 38 will be released later—probably in the fall.

R. L. Cleveland—The State department has a clever dodge for refusing to employ anti-Nazi German-Americans in rebuilding Germany and preventing World War III. The department won't employ any German-American who hasn't been a citizen for fifteen years.

Chester Somers, West Somerville, Miss.—Sorry but there are no bound files of the Merry-Go-Round.

Florence Ziner, Hartford, Conn.—Assistant Secretary of State Nelson Rockefeller may be replaced by American Ambassador to Chile Claude Bowers. Bowers nominated Al Smith for president in 1928 and is a Democrat with both a small and a large "D."

Press Decision Prompts Pause, Pettengill Says

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Five judges of the United States supreme court have made a decision "which threatens to be a first step in the shackling of the press," one that hastens the "time when the state will be supreme." As these are the carefully phrased words of Chief Justice Stone and Justice Roberts, it is time to listen, look and stop.

It is time, also, when seen in the light of the vast extension of the powers of the state in every other field; or in the light of the huge propaganda sums which the State pours forth to "condition" public thinking and voting, either in the domestic or foreign field (as witness O.W.I. or the millions spent by foreign governments to dominate the American mind, as recently reported by Attorney General Biddle).

What Justices Stone and Roberts said should also be considered in the light of demands made by Russia to curb the free press of Sweden, Switzerland, Uruguay, etc., and its abuse of American newspapers as well. As Justice Murphy who also dissented, remarks, "The tragic history of recent years demonstrates far too well how despotic governments may interfere with the press."

Mutual Association
I refer to the Associated Press case instituted at the time when a New Deal favorite, Mr. Marshall Field, broke into the Chicago newspaper world.

The Associated Press is a non-profit, co-operative, news gathering association. Each member paper is entitled to receive the news stories furnished by the agency, and in turn furnishes the association news stories originating in its own neighborhood. This mutual service is exclusive to its membership. By-laws were written to help keep the service exclusive when a newcomer wishes to enter a field already served by a member paper.

Squeaky Argument
Hence, the department of Justice claims that the A.P. is a monopoly and violates the anti-trust laws. Let us see. The A.P. serves 1247 American and five foreign papers, a total of 1252. But the United Press serves 981 domestic and 391 foreign subscribers, a total of 1372; and the International News Service has 341 members. In addition, there are some thirty other agencies supplying news stories, pictures, etc., to their members. All these competitive agencies have waxed and flourished since the A.P. started. So, it sounds somewhat squeaky to argue that the A.P. has killed off competition. On the contrary its own and its competitors' great success seem to illustrate the old saw that "competition is the life of trade."

Nevertheless, five judges (all Roosevelt appointees) have now held, in effect, that the A.P. can no longer act as a co-operative mutual agency for its members alone, but must be converted into a public utility and sell its service to all who apply.

As Justices Stone and Roberts said, it is a "new concept of monopoly" to hold that "when some person, out of materials open to all (the events of history) creates his own product, by hiring persons to produce it, that person may not determine to whom he will sell it." Further, as they say, the decision usurps the power of Congress by "making a new statute by court decision." It is "government by injunction with a vengeance."

Success Its Crime
And so, this great news gathering agency (and who knows how soon others will be clutched to the state's bony bosom?) must now struggle to outconfer with the notions of judges who cannot agree among themselves," as the Washington (D.C.) Star puts it.

The judicial crime of the A. P. seems to be that it is a success. Built up from nothing by the enterprise and elbow grease of frightened men, to serve 1252 newspapers and millions of readers, it must now share its assets of integrity and know-how with anyone who wants to climb aboard. This is the closest our supreme court has so far come to the communist doctrine "from each according to his ability, to each according to his need."

As Isocrates said in 354 B. C., "One must now apologize for any success in business as if it were a violation of the moral law, so that today it is worse to prosper than to be a criminal."

Great Contrast Is Noted in Reception Of World Charters

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Twenty minutes spent in the press gallery of the Senate watching President Truman deliver his brief address submitting the United Nations charter made an indelible impression because it brought to mind the contrast between this and a similar event on July 10, 1919. On that date President Wilson submitted the Covenant of the League of Nations to the Senate.

In the one instance, a quarter of a century ago, you could feel the hostility in the air. In the other you could feel the friendliness. One was ominous and indicated a bitter battle. The other plainly indicates ratification and is an augury of America's decision to participate in a new league of nations.

There were other contrasts. Mr. Wilson was a sedate, austere person. He never had served in Congress. He had become detached, especially during the war, from questions of domestic policy as he concentrated on foreign policy.

Mr. Truman oozes friendliness. His personality blends easily and readily with those around him. He doesn't rely on oratory or emotion. He states simply that the choice isn't between this charter and some other but between this charter or none. All the members of the Senate understand him and get his point. No elaborate argument is necessary.

Helped by Locals
But this simple presentation could not have been so convincing if the conference had been held at Paris as it was twenty-six years ago. The American people are fortunate that they were able to see the charter in the making over a period of more than nine weeks. They saw, through hundreds of press representatives, what was done to bring about agreement at San Francisco. Clearly the value of having the United Nations conference written at a meeting in this country is inestimable and assures ratification of the treaty. For the American people know that it was a meeting of sovereign equals and not a mere majority vote could not have bound any country that wished to refrain from participation. To get an agreement which fifty nations could sign, especially in this confused period of world affairs, is indeed a miraculous achievement.

As one watches the reception which President Truman received—it was the first time he had appeared formally in the Senate chamber since he left it as its presiding officer last April—there was no doubt about the cordiality and warmth of the applause. The Senate really took advantage of the occasion to tell Harry Truman it wished him well.

Informality Striking
There was a striking informality and ease as Mr. Truman mounted the rostrum and in almost conversational tones presented the matter in hand. It took only a few minutes to read the prepared manuscript, but when the president finished and started up the center aisle, he caught sight of old friends and leaned over a desk on one side and then on the other side to shake hands with Republicans and Democrats alike. One felt more than ever convinced that America ought to select its presidents from men with congressional experience. Curiously enough, nearly two thirds of the men who have sat in the White House have had legislative records in elective office.

President Truman brings to the present situation a trend toward harmony which has been sadly lacking in our foreign affairs. Partisanship helped kill the Covenant of the League of Nations twenty-six years ago—or rather it might be called bi-partisanship of a negative sort because mistakes were made on both sides.

Today there is almost no opposition to the new league of nations. The ardent believers in the old league are for it, not because they compare it with the Covenant clause by clause but because the new charter represents the best that can be obtained today. The opponents of the old League are for the new charter because they feel safeguards have been introduced which prevent the super-state or world-state idea from being imposed on America.

As for the "isolationists," a handful may vote against the charter but even here there were only a few who didn't really want America to engage in some form of international co-operation.

The new charter provides a system of international conference that does not go beyond the bounds of sovereignty. Each national legislature or government will still have to decide for itself in every concrete situation whether it will furnish military support for enforcement, which means that each nation will be the judge in every instance of the merits of disputes as they arise. Surely nobody can find a persuasive reason for objecting to such a procedure. For while it may not guarantee peace, it is perhaps in these times as good a formula as any that could be devised to introduce once more the factor of conscience and morality in international relations. NEW YORK — Well, we're still here in New York waiting for our sailing orders. We've been here so long, LaGuardia is starting to nod when we pass on the street.

Believe me, something is very mysterious about this sailing time. I believe, I think they must be building some new kind of robot boat for us. No red tape could possibly hold us up this long. We were all set to leave last week and we've been saying good-bye in the hotel lobby for four days now. It's embarrassing.

After awhile I get a little self-conscious going up to the clerk every morning and asking for a clean towel. Also some of the guys have begun to complain about my camp fire in the telephone booth. . . . but after all, I've got to have some way to fry my salmon.

In between phoning the tailor to try and find out when we leave, we've seen two pretty swell musicals here. "On the Town" and "Carousel." Of course, I was a little tough getting tickets. I asked producers, actors, stage managers, agencies, taxi-drivers, cops, my bookie and three strangers who were waiting for a subway to Brooklyn. They all said, "No." Then I got a marvelous idea. I just walked up and asked the girl at the box office. . . . She said, "No" too. I finally got my tickets from a scalper. I won't say how much they cost but he took the proceeds and bought a show of his own.

But I enjoyed both of these ventures. "Carousel" was really musical. They had so many musicians in the pit there was hardly room for the life-size portrait of Petrillo, smiling. And those musicians worked very hard. Once, right after the intermission, a cello player missed a note and they had to go back to the first act and start all over again. And everything was done in song. If the heat wanted to tell his girl, "I love you," he sang it for ten minutes with Dean Taylor standing in the background to tell her when to pucker up!

Well, New York is dandy, but I hope my next date line will be Somewhere in the Atlantic!

Buffalo Mills Man Is Now Serving With Famed Outfit

WITH THE THIRTY-SECOND INFANTRY DIVISION IN NORTH-ERN LUZON, P. I.—Pvt. Earl H. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith, who live on Route 1, Buffalo Mills, Pa., has been assigned to the Thirty-second (Red Arrow) Infantry Division now on Luzon. He is a rifleman in Company K of the One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Infantry regiment.

In the service since December, 1944, Smith trained at Camp Bland, Fla., before shipping to the Philippines. He has reason to be proud of his new organization. The infantrymen in this unit have seen action in six major engagements in the past thirty-eight months and holds the Distinguished Unit Badge for their performance in the bloody Buna battle. In the Luzon campaign they fought over the winding Villa Verde Trail, driving the enemy back, foot by foot.

Before entering the service, Smith was employed by the Celanese Corporation of America. His wife, the former Izola Ruth Imler, and two children, Izola Ruth, live in Ellerslie.

There are two persons named Smith for every one named Brown in England.

BONDS FOR THE FOURTH— and on to Victory

By comparison we are a young nation. For it was only one hundred and sixty-nine years ago that our Declaration of Independence was signed. But in those one hundred and sixty-nine years we have achieved much to be proud of—much to be grateful for. Today as we commemorate the signing of that document, we are in the midst of a tyrannical war—a war which we are fighting in order to keep alive those precious principles our ancestors fought to give us—to wipe out the last threat to a freedom-loving people. Let us each pledge to buy another War Bond this July Fourth—and dedicate that purchase to total Victory and everlasting Peace.

WAR BONDS

Fight For Independence!

Back in 1776, people of America fought for freedom . . . they won it hands down. In 1865 they gained freedom of another kind. And now, in 1945, freedom stands on the threshold again . . . freedom for the oppressed. Our fighting men are GIVING their lives for it on the battle fields. The least we can do is LEND our money. Why not celebrate this 4th by buying an extra bond? Firecrackers and rockets are out, but Uncle Sam is selling material for bigger explosions than you have ever seen. His product is War Bonds; and the Japanese, NOT the Americans, are seeing the fireworks.

AAUW Board Will Meet on July 18; Program Planned

Reports of National "Non-travel" Convention Given by Delegates

The executive board of the Cumberland branch of the American Association of University Women will hold a dinner-meeting at 6:30 o'clock July 18 at Central YMCA, with Mrs. William Robert Teeter presiding. Plans for the new fall program will be formulated at that time.

New appointees to the board are Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Social Studies chairman, to succeed Miss Ann Blakeslee Smith, who was elected secretary; Miss Dorothy Shires, Education chairman, succeeding Miss Ellen Harvey, elected vice president; Mrs. John Hafer, Social chairman, succeeding Mrs. Albert Hast, who resigned; and Mrs. H. C. Ewerengen, Art chairman to succeed Miss Chloris Benson, who resigned.

Mrs. Teeter, Miss Lillian Compton and Miss Blanch White were the delegates for the local branch of the AAUW, to the national "non-travel" convention of the AAUW, voting by mail, re-elected Dr. Helen C. White, professor of English at the University of Wisconsin, as president, according to an announcement made from the AAUW national headquarters.

Other officers are Dr. Margaret M. Justin, dean of Home Economics of Kansas State college, first vice president; Dr. Marion E. Park, president emeritus of Bryn Mawr college, second vice president, and Mrs. Frederick G. Atkinson, Minneapolis, treasurer.

Indorse Legislative Program.

Delegates also indorsed a legislative program, looking to the next two years as a crucial period in international co-operation and home-front readjustment.

On the international front the association called for improvement in the machinery for the conduct of United States foreign policy, including measures to strengthen the functioning of the State department.

A constitutional amendment to provide for ratification of treaties with approval by a majority of both houses of Congress was indorsed by a vote of 1879 to 223. The delegates also voted to indorse a policy which would authorize the United States member of the Security Council of the United Nations Organization to act within the limits of prior United States commitments without consulting Congress.

Four objectives for a constructive American foreign policy were approved; the maintenance of peace, through adequate international machinery, including the use of force if necessary; the promotion of international economic co-operation and reconstruction, expansion of world trade, and development of world resources; the development of intellectual and cultural co-operation between nations, including the establishment of an international organization in that field; and social and humanitarian rehabilitation.

The AAUW again went on record for federal aid to public education "under conditions safeguarding state control." and indorsed measures for improvement of the machinery of the Federal government for administering educational services. Federal regulation of radio and other communication media to make them available for educational use was listed as an AAUW objective.

The association also took a stand for control of inflation, protection of consumer interests, and maintenance of consumer purchasing power as a part of the reconversion program. Legislation to promote the development and use of standards of quality and performance for consumer goods was indorsed, together with extension of consumer service in the federal government and consumer participation in appropriate policy-making bodies.

Would Broaden Social Security
Advocated broadening the social security program, delegates approved; "organization of the social security program into a unified system with decentralized administration, including protection of the principle of state administration," extension of coverage, protection of veterans' rights under old age and survivors' insurance, temporary and permanent disability insurance, and financial aid to the states to provide public assistance for these not covered by specific categories.

The AAUW also asks for community participation in a nationwide housing program, which would function through a national housing agency. Indorsement was given to measures for maintaining and improving labor standards; for expansion of the rehabilitation program for both veterans and civilians; and for extending hospital and other public health facilities through the use of federal funds, if necessary.

Legislative principles laid down with regard to the economic and legal status of women included; opposition to discrimination in employment and property rights on the basis of sex or material status; and support of the principle of women's fullest participation in all social, economic and political life, with safeguards for health safety and general welfare of women workers. Delegates also opposed the proposed "Equal Rights" amendment to the Constitution.

Twenty cars of coal derailed Saturday in the Stewart tunnel, near Orleans Road, on the railroad's "high line", but traffic was not delayed, as it was diverted over the "low line" and the wreckage was cleaned up Sunday about midnight. Father Kilgannon Gets Papal Blessing

Receipt of a papal blessing from Pope Pius XII conveyed through the most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to Washington, D. C., signaled the celebration last Sunday by the Rev. Robert J. Kilgannon, pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic church in Ridgeley, W. Va., of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. The text of the blessing was read at the solemn high mass celebrated by Father Kilgannon, by the Rev. Edward L. Stephens, Alexandria, Va., who preached the jubilee sermon. Officers of the mass were the Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty, of Cumberland, deacon; the Rev. John O'Hara, Lynchburg, Va., sub-deacon; and the Rev. Francis Byrnes, Richmond, Va., master of ceremonies.

Victory Gardeners Out in Force Again This Year, Survey Reveals

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 3 — In spite of the fact that the war in Europe is over, there has been little let-down in the victory garden efforts of families throughout the country this summer.

In fact, a survey of the nation finds that there will probably be close to as many gardens this year as last year. As of the first part of June, slightly fewer gardens had been planted than at a comparable time last year. On the basis of the survey about 17,000,000 families said they already have gardens in, but enough more families said they hoped to plant gardens to bring the figure up to last year's total, estimated by the Department of Agriculture to have been 18,400,000.

Last year the Institute estimated that 17,500,000 gardens were planted, as of early May, and that about two and a half million additional families said they hoped to plant a garden.

Apparently not all of these families carried through on their intention, as a special intensive survey by the department of Agriculture in the fall of last year found that 18,400,000 victory gardens actually had been planted.

Barton Woman Escapes Injury In Gasoline Fire

By DONALD WILSON
BARTON, July 3.—A car driven by Miss Agatha Dorsey, traveling west on the George's Creek boulevard, ran against the gas pumps in front of the service station of Harry Shaw, Moscow, Saturday, dislodging them from their base. In some manner the gas in the pumps was ignited, setting the rear of the car on fire. By the time firemen of Barton Hose Company No. 1 arrived, the car was burning rapidly and the blaze from the pumps was rising to sufficient heights to endanger the building.

A carbon dioxide extinguisher, designed for extinguishing such fires, which was recently purchased by the fire department, was put into use, and extinguished the fire. Considerable damage was done to the car.

The fire fighting was directed by William Kyle and William Chappell, chief and assistant chief, respectively, of the department.

Observes Ninetieth Birthday
Mrs. Ellen Baird, widow of Edward Baird, observed her ninetieth birthday at her home Sunday. She is one of the oldest living citizens of Barton.

Her children, John Baird, Hugh Baird, Mrs. Lewis Clark and Mrs. Joseph Bradley, Barton; Mrs. Agnes Hoopesgardner, Akron, O.; Mrs. Nell James, Lonsdale, and Mrs. Elizabeth Arlberg, Cumberland, visited her during the day. Mrs. Baird has been a life-long resident of Barton.

Bible School Closes
The Union Daily Vacation Bible school, which has been conducted in the Methodist church since June 18, closed Friday afternoon.

Exercises were held Thursday evening, at which time an exhibition of the religious training and handiwork of the ninety-six pupils was given. The pupils were taken to Stephen's Grove on a picnic Friday.

The classes were directed by the Rev. L. Moore, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Observe Anniversary
Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McCormick observed their golden wedding anniversary at their home Monday. Eight children were born of the marriage, all of whom are living except a son, Robert McCormick, who died several years ago.

Two sons, Oris McCormick, Barton, and George McCormick, Alliquippa, are in the armed forces. Another son, Giffen McCormick, was recently given a medical discharge.

After serving two years in the navy, a daughter, Mrs. Harry Fisher, resides in Washington. Another daughter, Miss Alice McCormick, and a son, Cooper McCormick, remain at home. A son, Wilbur McCormick, resides in Westport.

All the children, except those in the service, were at home for the observance of the event. The couple have six grandchildren.

Brothers Meet in France
Cpl. Stanley L. Davis and his brother, Pfc. Paul R. Davis, sons of Mrs. Jane Davis, Barton, met recently in France. Stanley has been overseas for sixteen months, while Paul arrived in Europe last October.

They have two brothers and a sister in the service. Sgt. Joseph Davis, who has served with the army in the Pacific for the past three years, and is now located in the Philippines; Richard Davis, with the navy, and Norma Lee Davis, a cadet nurse at Memorial hospital, Cumberland.

Personal
William R. Harvey, group investigator of the federal alcoholic division, who was recently placed in charge of the office at Huntington, W. Va., has taken his wife and children to reside with him at that place. They left by car Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stalder and their son, Leon, returned to their home in Akron, O., after visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Otto and family, Halethorpe, Md., visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, Sr.

Richard Davis, ship's cook second class, returned to Philadelphia after spending a leave with his mother, Mrs. Jane Davis.

David L. George, seaman first class, left Sunday for San Francisco, Calif., after spending a five-day leave with his mother, Mrs. William George. Seaman George has been in the navy over two years. He recently returned from the Philippines.

Pfc. Royland Bailey returned to his base after visiting his wife and his mother, Mrs. George McDonald. Miss Verla Michael left by motor Friday to spend the summer with her father and sister in Arlington, Va.

Cpl. and Mrs. James Francis, Washington, are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bailey.

Dr. and Mrs. John Willen and son, Jackie, Salisbury, are vacationing at the home of Mrs. Willen's sister, Mrs. Annie Brown.

Bedford Youth Drowns in Pool

Bedford, Pa., July 3.—Daniel Ross Wicker, 16, only son of State Police Sgt. and Mrs. Marion J. Wicker of Bedford, drowned late Sunday afternoon in shallow water at Lake Caledonia, Bedford Springs. Resuscitation measures were applied for five hours but in vain.

The youngster was wading and playing in a few feet of water with his nine-year-old sister, Mariana, when he was missed by his mother who was sitting on the bank watching them.

The boy apparently sank beneath the surface without warning as there were a number of persons on him at the time. Approximately fifty persons were in or near the pool and no one heard any outcry.

When the mother spread the alarm an immediate search of the pool was started and the body was recovered about 5 p. m.—15 minutes after he was reported missing.

Rescue crews of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company and the Penn. Edison Company as well as Drs. Norman A. Timmins and H. A. Shimer and three registered nurses, Mrs. Margaret Grissinger, Miss Brightbill and Mrs. Joseph Bent, worked over the body until 10 p. m. An inhalator was used.

The boy was born in Altoona, July 15, 1934, a son of Marion J. Wicker and Charlotte (Brightbill) Wicker. The deceased was a pupil at the Bedford public school and a member of the Trinity Lutheran church where he served as an acolyte for the past two years.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow at home on Juliana street. Burial will take place in Bedford cemetery.

Record Is Broken In Tax Collection
Since the 1945 county tax bills were mailed out during the last week in May, collections have already passed the ninety per cent mark, establishing a new record in little more than thirty days, according to Lucian C. Radcliffe, collector for District No. 1, which includes Cumberland.

A total of $1,087,481.58 in county and state taxes has been received at the collector's office in the court house, leaving only $11,031.13 to be collected. It was explained, however, that approximately $150,000 is to be received from various corporations in addition to the latter amount, after being cleared through the state tax commission.

Radcliffe said that a major reason for the record-breaking collection in June was the fact that hundreds of taxpayers took advantage of the five per cent discount allowed for payment prior to July 1.

During July the discount for payment of state and county taxes is four per cent, and it will drop to three per cent in August. Beginning September 1, interest of one-half per cent each month will be charged on 1945 tax bills.

Fifth Bookie Operator Forfeits $50 Bond
Don Cameron, 208 Virginia avenue, forfeited $50 bond in police court yesterday morning when he failed to appear for a hearing on a charge of operating a "bookie" establishment. He was arrested Monday afternoon by Officer W. P. Crabtree.

James Linn and Raymond Goss, both of Baltimore street, and Leo Miller and Harry Little, both of North Mechanic street, each forfeited $50 bonds on the same charge Monday.

Five Persons Receive Suspended Fines
Five persons arrested early yesterday morning by Officers James W. Brown and R. M. Nuse after a disturbance in South Cumberland each received suspended fines after hearings in police court yesterday morning. They were listed on the police court docket as:

H. E. Lee, 405 Cedar street, disorderly conduct; Mrs. Elma Lee, same address, drunk and disorderly conduct; Lee Lee, 404 York place, disorderly conduct; Sylvia Lee, same address, same charge; and Freeman Lee, same address, same charge.

Will of Wheeling Man Filed for Record Here
A copy of the will of William H. Koch, Wheeling, W. Va., was filed for record at yesterday's session of orphans' court. Real estate in Frostburg was left to a sister, Miss Katherine C. Koch, and for that reason the copy was recorded here.

Mr. Koch, who died May 24, 1934, left most of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Helen Koch. The will was drawn June 11, 1930.

Pfc. Maurice Tichnell Wounded on Mindanao
Pfc. Maurice O. Tichnell, 35, husband of Mrs. Evelyn Tichnell, 325 Emily street, was slightly wounded June 7 on Mindanao island in the Philippines.

A former B. and O. employee, Pfc. Tichnell entered the army December 2, 1943, and went overseas last September.

Leo Mackey Is Due Soon
Colts Led 12 to Wire
Grafton Loses McDade
Remember Father Curran?

When Leo Mackey comes here to assist in conducting the Pittsburgh Pirates' baseball school at North End Field, July 16, 17 and 18 it will bring back memories of fourteen years ago when "Larrupin" Leo" piloted the Cumberland Colts to the championship of the only 12-club circuit in the history of organized baseball.

The Middle Atlantic League was known as "Dally's Dozen" that year because there were an even dozen teams in the circuit, namely, Beaver Falls, Charleroi, Youngstown, Huntington, Clarksburg, Fairmont, Charleston, Wheeling, Scottsdale, Johnstown, Beckley and Cumberland.

If any city ever had a winner Cumberland saw it that year because the Dobbins took ten out of eleven series with visiting clubs of the time. The team wound up the season with an at-home record of fifty-eight wins and thirteen losses for an average of .817.

The outfield of Shea, Hall and Jackson, the infield combination of Posnak, Paientum, Davin and McCoy; Bill Salamone and Mackey handling the catching and "Chip" Helmick, Vito Tamulis, Marvin Duke and Jimmy Densmore doing the bulk of the work on the firing line gave the team a record of 82 wins and 46 losses for the entire season. The Dobbins won the title by defeating Charleston in the playoff series.

Helmick, Tamulis, Duke and Densmore accounted for 65 wins among them and the club had six 300 hitters, Paientum leading the pack with an average of .341.

Mackey also managed Cumberland's last team in organized baseball in 1932 but his club failed to repeat. Davin, Helmick and Densmore were the lone holdovers from the championship club. Helmick, however, topped the pitchers, and had a two-year record of 33 wins and 11 losses while hurling for the New York Yankees' farm team.

Kemp Wickler, the southpaw, and Bob Collins, catcher, of the 1932 team, are believed to be the only Colts still active in organized baseball.

Mackey was no slouch as a hitter in 1931 when he pounded the pellet for 341 in 42 games. The following year he was in 21 games and hit 293.

The Rev. Father Boniface Weckman, who served as pastor of St. Peter and Paul church, this city, for twelve years prior to 1942, died into the sport pages the other day when he announced the appointment of Charles F. "Mickey" McDade, of Grafton, Va., as athletic director and new head coach at Charleston Catholic high school. Father Boniface is pastor of Sacred Heart church and superintendent of the high school in West Virginia's capital city.

McDade, an all-around athlete at Fairmont State college, coached at Grafton junior high school and was assistant to Ran McKinney at Grafton senior high. For the past three years he has been head coach at Grafton. He is regarded as one of the outstanding football and basketball officials in the northern sector of the state and is the only official to work two successive state basketball tournaments. "Mickey" assumes his new duties immediately.

Maryland's new Attorney General William Curran, of Baltimore, is a brother of the Rev. Joseph L. Curran, who was stationed at St. Patrick's church, this city, for eleven months back in 1919. Father Curran, now pastor of St. Clement's church, Rosedale, Md., was a great baseball fan in those days and showed particular interest in the games the youngsters played on the lot in the rear of the North Centre street church.

St. Patrick's, SS. Peter and Paul and St. Mary's were represented by teams and many a hot diamond battle was waged on St. Patrick's lot. Father Curran used to grab a bat and put the home team through a snappy infield drill prior to the start of each game. There was little loafing in those contests as a "curfew" called for the cessation of hostilities on that field at 6 p. m.

Capt. Harold Kopp, son-in-law of Gilbert C. Cooling, principal of Barton high school, has been assigned as commandant of trainees at the University of Connecticut. He was recently attached to Headquarters, First Army, Boston, Mass., after seeing service in Africa and Europe.

Kopp started on college gridirons in his younger days and served as football coach at several of the larger schools. Mrs. Kopp was Miss Hazel Cooling.

DEATHS

ERNEST RADER RITES
Brief funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at the grave in Green Ridge cemetery for Ernest William Rader, 12-year-old son of Albert Rader, of near Oldtown, who was instantly killed Monday at 7 p. m. when he was struck by an eastbound Western Maryland Railway freight train a half-mile east of Sloan and about a quarter of a mile from his home. The Rev. George E. Baughman, pastor of First Methodist church, will officiate.

MRS. VANPELT RITES
Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth VanPelt, 63, widow of John D. VanPelt, who died Sunday at her home, 111 West Elder street, were conducted yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Kight funeral home.

The Rev. George E. Baughman, pastor of First Methodist church, officiated. Interment was in Ross Hill cemetery.

Pallbearers were Charles Bishop, James E. Long, Hugh M. Friend, Carl Skidmore, Chauncey Teets and Richard Layman.

Funeral services for George E. Webster, 50, a former resident of this city who died at his home in Washington, D. C., Monday, will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Stein funeral home. The body will arrive here this afternoon and will be taken to Stein's chapel.

The Rev. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, will officiate and interment will be in St. Luke's cemetery in charge of Cumberland Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

He is survived by one brother, James W. Webster, and one sister, Mrs. Virginia Marion, both of Washington.

He was a native of this city and lived on Furnace street until he moved to Washington several years ago.

MRS. J. VANCE WIEBEL
Mrs. Eva Wiebel, wife of J. Vance Wiebel, 210 Union street, Wilkinsburg, Pa., died yesterday morning in a Pittsburgh, Pa., hospital.

Mr. Wiebel is a native of this city and was formerly manager of the Jersey Printing Company here. His first wife, Mrs. Louise Snyder Wiebel, died in 1928.

Really Firm Dissolved By Court Order
A petition for the dissolution of the Cumberland Realty Company was granted in an order signed yesterday in circuit court by Chief Judge William A. Huster.

The company was incorporated in July, 1928, forfeited its charter in 1938, and was revived in 1939 by the state tax commission, according to William S. Jenkins, counsel for the firm.

In asking for the dissolution Jenkins said all bills have been paid, adding that $1,173.09 remains for distribution among the stockholders.

Tigers Win Third In Victory League
The McIntyre Tigers marked up their third straight victory in the Victory Baseball League and handed the Century A. C. of Frostburg, its initial setback by winning a 9-6 battle last evening on the Taylor field.

Charles Landenberger had two singles in three trips for the Tigers while LaRue had three for three for Century, one of the blows being a homer. Arnone, Century pitcher, also counted a home run. The score: CENTURY A. C. 200 121 9-6 10 3 3 MCINTYRE TIGERS 212 130 9-6 9 3 3 Arnone and Eisentrout, Evans; DeHart and Radcliffe.

Midget Baseball Loop Will Meet Tomorrow
The Midget Baseball League will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 at the Century Y. M. C. A. of Frostburg, under the leadership of the loop, announced last night.

Arrangements for the all-star game to be played July 20 and preliminary arrangements for the championship playoff series will be made. New names or the circuit will also be considered.

City Net Tourney Will Open Today
The annual city championship tennis tournament will get under way this morning with Betty Flake and Norman Sell meeting Mary Louise Buzzell and Gus Brust in a mixed doubles match at 11 o'clock on the Dingle courts.

L. E. "Red" Van Sant, tourney director, said last night that draws have yet to be made for men's singles and men's doubles. Eight combinations have entered the mixed doubles while ten will battle it out in the women's singles. Mixed doubles and women's singles pairings follow:

Al Gionfriddo's Second Army Induction Delayed
CRESSON, Pa., July 3.—(AP)—Declaring he wasn't "AWOL" from the army, Al Gionfriddo, star outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, turned up at his home town here today and disclosed his draft board had just postponed his second army induction for thirty days.

Ordered to report for induction July 12, he said he came here from New York to request deferment because his wife is expecting the stock in two weeks. He planned to rejoin the Pirates at Philadelphia tonight.

The class little 23-year-old outfielder received a medical discharge after nine months' service with the army but was recently notified by his Cresson draft board to report for induction July 12.

C. E. Eckenrode, chief clerk of the board, said Gionfriddo was called as "under the new regulation we have to pick up all professional athletes even though they have had previous service."

Sullivan Gets New Naval Academy Job
ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 3.—(AP)—The Navy Athletic Association announced today the assignment of Lt. William H. Sullivan, Jr., former publicity director for Boston college, as its director of public relations, a new position at the United States Naval Academy.

Sullivan, who entered the navy in April of 1942 and who since has been in naval aviation, is scheduled to become director of publicity for the Boston Braves baseball team after the war.

Capt. C. O. Humphreys, academy director of athletics, said Sullivan would handle all information on Navy athletic teams as well as press facilities.

Sullivan was director of publicity at Boston college for four years, and later was personal secretary to Athletic Director Frank Leahy, of Notre Dame, collaborating with Leahy in nationally syndicated articles on intercollegiate football.

In the navy he has, among other things, publicized the world-wide physical and military training program for aviation personnel.

Race Horse Handling Being Studied by ODT
WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—Race horse transportation, freed from government restriction after V-E day, is under study again.

The Office of Defense Transportation disclosed it is asking railroads the amount of transportation involved in shipments of race horses to and from tracks.

The ODT said it is concerned "over the tight transportation situation and the heavy requirements due to the army redeployment program."

The ODT lifted orders restricting hauling of racing animals after the Office of War Mobilization removed the racing ban following V-E day.

An ODT spokesman said the survey was not being made at the request of Fred M. Vinson, director of war mobilization and reconversion. Any new ban would have to come from Vinson's office. The ODT has authority only over transportation and could not impose a ban without instructions from Vinson.

Talk by Hannegan In Georgia Will Be on the Radio

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK, July 3.—While most of the network shows will be observing the day with regular broadcasts augmented with seasonal touches, not too many special of a Fourth of July nature have been announced in advance for Wednesday.

One of them will be on CBS at 1:15, a half-hour of the celebration at Gainesville, Ga., at which Postmaster General Robert Hannegan is the principal speaker. Three Georgia representatives and Sen. R. B. Russell, of Georgia, also are to be heard. Another MBS feature at 4 is a wounded veterans bicycle race from Walter Reed hospital.

At 11:30 at night MBS has scheduled a rebroadcast of the final program of the American broadcasting station in Europe, put on earlier in the day. It will comprise a documentary report of world events.

The summer schedule has still another new one. Called Curtain Time, each broadcast containing a three-act play, starts on ABC at 9. The opener will be "Public Enemies," coming out of Chicago. . . . For the second season Phil Harris takes over the Kay Kyser hour on NBC at 10. He is expected to have around three months, Kay to spend part of his absence entertaining the boys overseas.

The four-girl panel of MBS in which they compete with a lone man guest in discussing problems of romance has changed title again. The latest makes it Leave it to the Girls instead of Between Us Girls. The broadcast is at 10:30. . . . G. I. Laifs, introduced last Thursday night on CBS, has moved to its regular time at 10:30 in the spot formerly occupied by Milton Berle, now off the air.

Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and brother, Edward M. Mulla, who departed this life on Sunday, July 4, 1944.

His loss was hard, the shock severe, never thought his death so near,
only those who have lost can tell the pain of parting without farewell.

Little thought when leaving home,
that he would never return,
but he is now in death without sleep and we are here to mourn.

One knows how much we miss him,
how his memory lives,
how his thoughts will ever wander to the spot where he is laid.

Only missed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Mulla, Sister, Frances and Mary
Mulla, and Christine Centofanti,
Brother, Charles Mulla.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, George Herbert Smiley, who passed away four years ago, July 3, 1941.

Today our hearts are heavy,
and we miss him from our home, dear Father,
a shadow over our life is cast,
for he is now in death without sleep
and we are here to mourn.

WIFE AND CHILDREN.
7-3-11-TN

In loving memory of our brother, Edward P. Mulla, who died July 4, 1944.

He needed him, our loved one so dear,
and we miss him from our home today,
and we miss him from our home today,
and we miss him from our home today.

May you be happy wherever you roam,
for you are many miles from home,
and we miss you from our home today,
and we miss you from our home today.

MR. AND MRS. NICK CENTOFANTI.
7-3-11-TN

In loving memory of my dear sister-in-law, Betty Elizabeth Coffman, who departed this life three years ago,
July 4, 1942.

I have only your memory dear Betty,
and I miss you from my home today,
and I miss you from my home today,
and I miss you from my home today.

Your loving sister-in-law,
CLARA WISMAN.

Five Navy Planes To Feature War Bond Show Today At the Airport

30-Minute Flying Demonstration To Start at 11 a. m.; Celanese Will Sell Bonds

A dive bombing attack and formation flying will be among the highlights of the demonstrations to be given today by five United States Navy planes at the Municipal airport in conjunction with the Seventh War Loan drive air show being given under the auspices of the war bond committee of the Amcelle plant, the Celanese Corporation of America.

In the bombing attack the planes will dive from 12,000 feet a distance of approximately two miles, according to officers who arrived here yesterday from Annapolis, S. C., with four of the naval aircraft, namely, Avenger (TBM), Hell Diver (SB2C), Helicat (PB2V) and Corsair (F4U). A Wildcat 1 pe plane and a Beechcraft, utility ship, are scheduled to arrive here today.

Flying Starts at 11 A. M.

All of the planes to be seen here during the show are carrier-based ships with the exception of the Beechcraft. Three of the aircraft have seen combat service—two in the Atlantic and one in the Pacific. The Corsair is the fastest of the four ships, being capable of making a speed of 450 miles an hour.

Officers in charge of the planes related that they have been "on the road" since May 28 giving demonstrations in connection with the Seventh War Loan Drive. Among the places where the air armada has put in shows are Rochester and Dunkirk, N. Y.; Johnson, New Castle, Reading, Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, Pa.; Concord, Berlin and Keene, N. H.; Saginaw, Detroit Harbor and Kalamazoo, Mich.; Indianapolis, Ind., and Birmingham, Ala. Today's demonstration will be the last of the six weeks' bond tour for the navy fliers.

Celanese To Sell Bonds

Edward T. Beall, general chairman of the Celanese War Bond Committee, last evening announced that a large bond booth will be erected at the airport and bond sales will be in charge of a staff headed by John Creagan and John Zolovich. The booth probably will be placed near the administration building. Every $25 bond purchase will entitle the buyer to a chance on the $100,000 bond and other prizes that will be awarded in the Grand Sweepstakes drawing on Saturday.

Beall stated that a special effort is being made by Celanese to attain its exceptionally high quota of $375,000 in the Seventh War Loan Drive. To date "E" bond sales credited to Celanese amount to $10,000 and additional sales by July 7 must be $25,000 to put the plant's drive "over the top."

Sandwiches and soft drinks will be available and parking at the airport will be free throughout the day.

Textile Workers Will Hear Report on Policy Concerning New Contract

The results of Monday's meeting of Local 1874, Textile Workers of America, committee concerning policy on new contract with the Celanese Corporation of America, will be explained at a membership meeting of the local tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Textile hall.

The negotiating committee and the executive board of the local discussed possible negotiations with Wesley Cook, assistant director of the synthetic rayon division of TWUA.

The present contract, union officials reported, expires September 30 and the local must give written notice to the company by July 30 if the contract is to be altered.

A recent War Labor Board decision on wages denied a general increase "without prejudice" which union officials said means the local might again apply for an increase in the "Little Steel" formula is broken or national action taken on textile wages.

Local Boards Assert Most Deferred Men Already Reclassified

Commenting on a recent statement by Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state selective service director, that Maryland draft boards will begin tightening up on the granting of deferments to industrial workers under 30, officials of the two local draft boards said yesterday that most of their registrants who were previously deferred have been reclassified and called for military service.

It was pointed out that current draft calls are being met by using young men who just reached their eighteenth birthday or men between 18 and 38 who left their jobs without obtaining a determination from their draft board.

Men already classified in 2-A, occupations supporting the national health, safety or interest, or in 2-B, occupations directly related to war production, will not be reclassified until their present deferments have expired, it was stated.

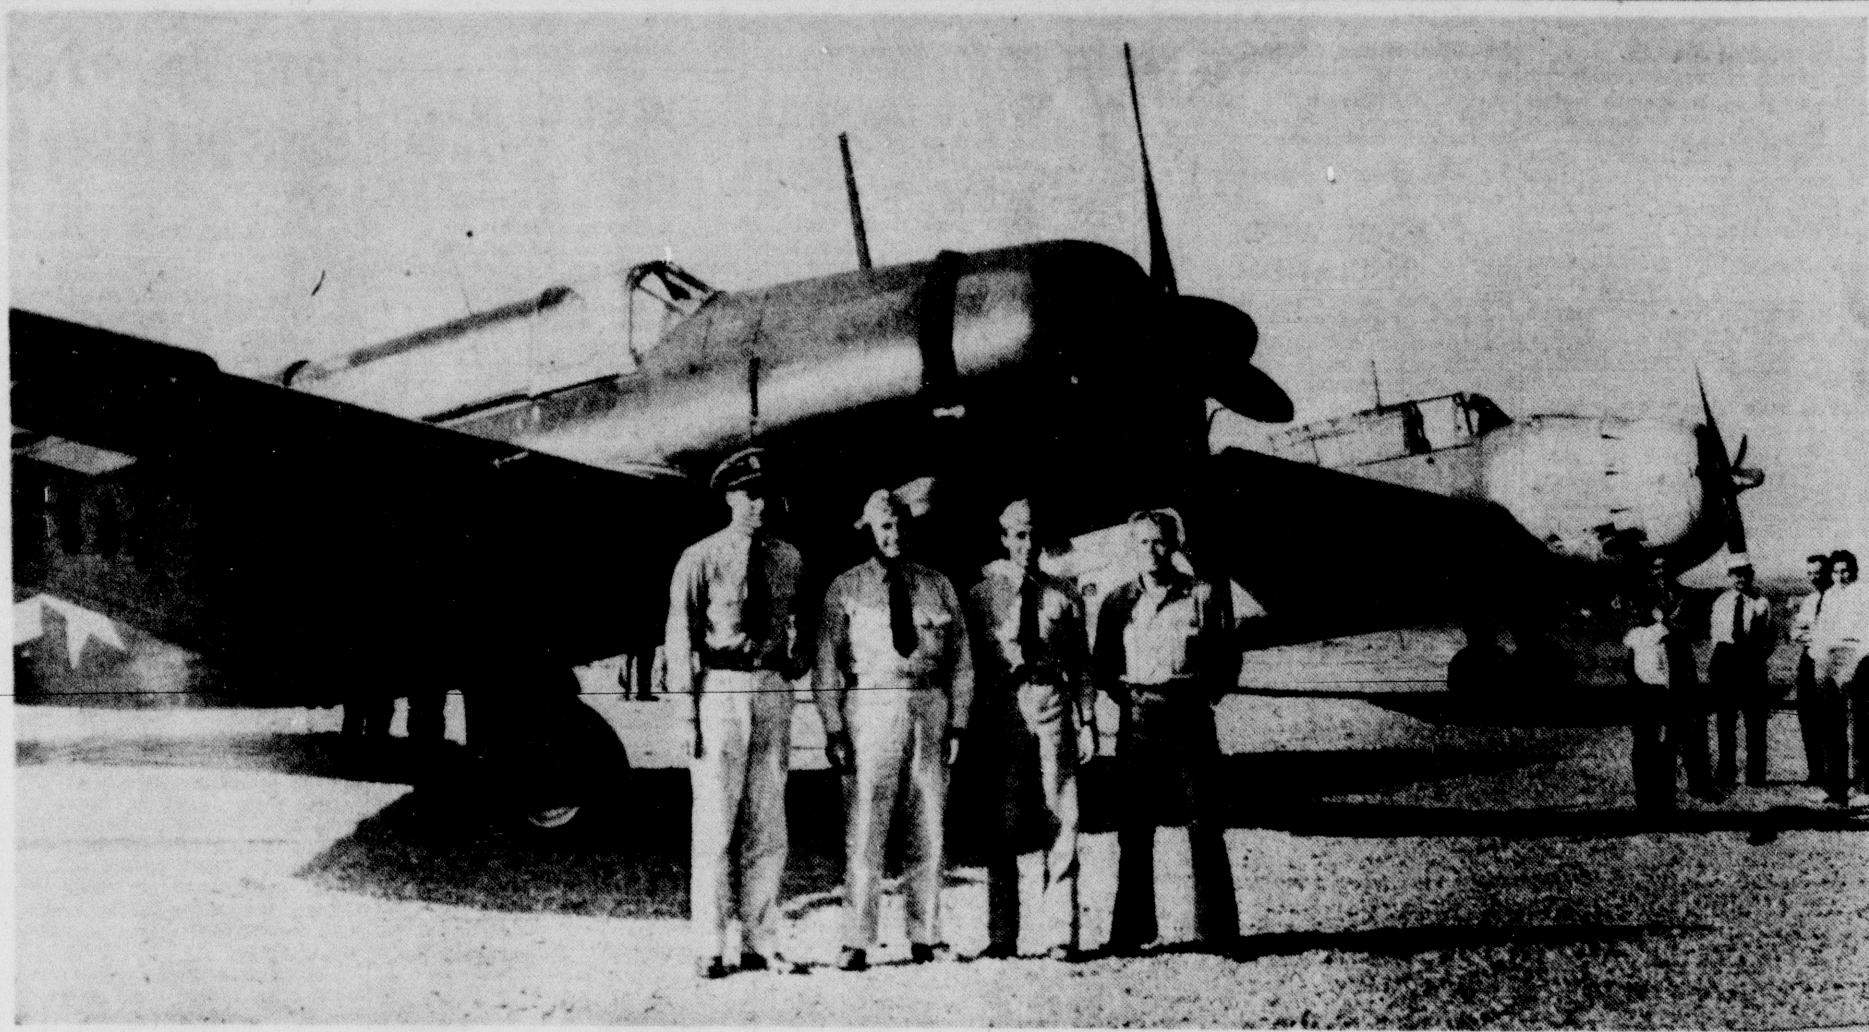

Board officials said that most of these deferments will expire in the early fall.

Local News in Brief

The child welfare clinic scheduled for today at city hall has been postponed due to the Fourth of July holiday. The clinic scheduled for the second Tuesday of the month will be held next week.

A new production group has been formed in Corriantville with Mrs. Warren Priddy as chairman. It was announced yesterday by Mrs. Jim McQuown, production chairman for the Allegheny county chapter of the American Red Cross. Mrs. McQuown, assisted by Mrs. Henry Mackey of the motor corps, took production materials to Corriantville and to Spring Gap yesterday. Mrs. Raymond Tashenberger is chairman of the latter group.

All public offices will be closed today in observance of the Fourth of July holiday, but federal offices will remain open as usual.

HERE TO AID BOND DRIVE—The first of the six navy planes to arrive at the local airport for the Seventh War Loan Drive exhibit today were the two planes and their personnel, pictured above, who landed here early yesterday evening. The planes are the SB2C Helldiver (foreground), piloted by Lt. Christian Fink, Wyoming, flight commander, and the TBM Avenger (background), flown by Lt. Dale H. Orcutt, Ohio. Belco Corporation Buys Cavanaugh Hotel Property

Purchase Price Is About $29,500; Improvements Are Underway

Sale of the old Cavanaugh hotel property at 174-178 Baltimore street by the Second National bank to the Belco Corporation was disclosed yesterday with the filing of the deed for the transaction in the office of the clerk of circuit court. Revenue stamps indicated the purchase price to be about $29,500.

There have been considerable rumors of the purchase for the past several weeks, after the Belco Corporation obtained a permit from the city engineer to convert the property into eight apartments and a store room.

Remodeling, estimated to cost $4,000, already is underway and is expected to be completed sometime in August. On completion, the first floor will be occupied by a modern store room.

A four-story brick structure, the second and third floors will house apartments while the fourth floor will be used for storage.

Improvement of the property was approved by both the War Labor Board and Federal Housing Administration, and the building permit was issued with the understanding that the fire escape would be put in first class usable condition.

Recently, a certificate of incorporation was issued to the Belco Corporation by the state tax commission. Edward J. Ryan, Margaret Fradiska and Michael D. Reinhardt were named as incorporators.

SLANESVILLE CHILD IS INJURED IN FALL INTO ABANDONED WELL

A 3-year-old, Slanesville, W. Va., child, Eleanor Alkire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Alkire, was in a "satisfactory" condition last evening in Memorial hospital where she was admitted last yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries suffered when she fell twenty feet into an abandoned well on her father's farm.

The child was treated for a fractured left jaw, multiple lacerations of the head and face and lacerations of the left leg.

The child's father told attaches that the abandoned well, in the garden near his home had been filled in with rocks and dirt when he plowed the ground in the spring. He believed that underground water had washed away the soil.

Attaches were told Alkire learned of the accident about 3 p. m., a few moments after the child fell into the well, when his son ran to tell him that his sister had disappeared. The Slanesville farmer reported that quite a bit of dirt and rocks fell into the opening after the little girl fell.

Five Youths Will Begin Training As Navy Pilots

Five youths of the Cumberland area, all 17, will begin their training as naval aviation cadets in the V-5 program this week. Chief Petty Officer Walter B. Warmee, in charge of local navy recruiting, said yesterday.

Two of the youths have been assigned to a V-12 unit at Mercer university, Macon, Ga., where they will receive one year of educational training before taking eighteen months of flight training.

They are John Robert Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Martin, 520 Columbia avenue; and Clarence Anderson Diehl, son of Mrs. Mary B. Diehl, Bedford, Pa. Martin, a graduate of LaSalle high school this year, was sworn into the navy in Washington June 18 as an apprentice seaman. Diehl, a member of the Bedford high school wrestling team for three years before his graduation this spring, is also a member of the National Scholarship Society. He was sworn into the navy June 16. Both boys reported to the university Monday.

James R. Cook, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Cook, 822 Buckingham road, left yesterday to begin his V-12 training at Newberry college, Newberry, S. C. Cook was sworn into the navy May 23 in Washington.

George M. Waters, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Harris M. Waters, Mt. Savage, will report to Newberry college today to begin his college training in the naval aviation cadet program. Although he was sworn into the navy May 23 in Baltimore as a combat air crewman, he was later transferred to the V-5 program as an apprentice seaman.

James Paul Twigg, 801 Camden avenue, will leave tomorrow to begin his V-12 college training at Arkansas A. and M. Monticello, Ark. A graduate of Allegheny high school this year, Twigg was sworn into the navy May 23 in Washington as an apprentice seaman for naval aviation cadet training.

South End Residents Oppose Issuance Of Beer License

Opposing the issuance of a beer and wine license to Jesse Kimmel at 229 Springdale street, seventy-four residents of that section signed a remonstrance which was filed in circuit court yesterday by Harold E. Naughton.

Kimmel filed an application June 9 to transfer a Class B license for hotels and restaurants from 315 Springdale street to 229 Springdale street.

The remonstrants, contending that the street is in a residential section, pointed out that there is already one beer parlor within a half-block of that address, and five other beer parlors within two blocks.

No date has been set for a hearing on the remonstrance. F. Brooke Whiting is counsel for Kimmel, who recently applied to the city zoning board for permission to operate a restaurant at 229 Springdale street.

Sgt. Hillock Dies Of Self-Inflicted Gunshot Wound

Widow Attributes Suicide of Former Local Man to "War Nerves"

War nerves are attributed to the suicide of Staff Sgt. Donald T. Hillock, 22, formerly of Cumberland, who died Saturday in a Denver, Colo., hospital of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head, Sheriff George Koch, of Jefferson county, reported.

Sgt. Hillock, whose home is in Pasadena, Calif., was a Fort Logan, Colo., patient and had flown more than forty air missions overseas.

The shooting occurred last Friday night at 3003 Ponten street, Edgewater, Denver suburb, home of Hillock's wife, Alice, 19.

Mrs. Hillock told officers her husband was "suffering from war nerves." He ended his life in her presence and the presence of Ben Williams, 24, cousin of Mrs. Hillock, and navy man home on leave.

Sgt. Hillock was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Hillock, of 1692 North Marengo avenue, Pasadena, Calif., former residents of the 100-block Bedford street. Hillock, one-time New York newspaperman, was resident engineer of the Works Projects Administration when construction of the Cumberland airport was started.

A graduate of Allegheny high school, where he played on the football team, Sgt. Hillock was graduated from the Campobello institution in 1941. He was employed at the Celanese plant before entering the service and went overseas last fall. He was attached to the Fifteenth Air Force. His parents moved to the Pacific Coast a year ago.

Besides his parents and his widow, he is survived by two brothers, Lt. Harry Hillock and Lt. Stanley G. Hillock, Jr., in the army air forces.

Drunkness Is Chief Cause of Arrests By Police in June

Although drunkness, as usual, was the chief cause of arrests made in this city in June, there was a notable decline in arrests for juvenile delinquency, according to the police court docket.

Sixty-three persons, mostly men, were arrested on "drunk" charges, most of them in downtown Cumberland. About a dozen of the names appeared several times.

"Held for investigation" ranked second in arrests made during the month. Several persons held for questioning were later tried on criminal charges.

Commenting on the noticeable decrease in petty thefts usually traced to juveniles, authorities reported that one gang of boys involved in robberies here, was broken up last month.

The docket also lists fifteen cases of drunk and disorderly conduct, thirty cases of disorderly conduct and twenty-two servicemen held for military police on AWOL charges.

Unemployment Board Offices Will Close

Francis A. Kenney, acting manager of the Cumberland office, Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board, announced yesterday that the Lonaconga office, usually open on Wednesday afternoon for the taking of claims, will be closed today in observance of the holiday. The office will be open tomorrow from 1 to 3 p. m.

The Cumberland office on Union street also will be closed today.

Bicycle Users Must Display 1945 Tags

Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman yesterday warned Cumberland youths that all bicycles operated with 1944 tags will be held at police headquarters for ten days.

Only 481 new tags had been issued last Friday at police headquarters. For the present, licenses will be issued each day from 10 a. m. until noon at the garage at police headquarters.

Farm Real Estate Values Increase By 52 Per Cent

Specialist Informs McHenry Level Is Getting Higher Monthly

Farm real estate values in Maryland have increased fifty-two per cent since the prewar years 1935-39. Dr. S. H. DeVault, head of the department of agricultural economics and marketing at the University of Maryland, has informed Ralph P. McHenry, county farm agent.

The present level of farm real estate values in the state is thirteen per cent below the peak reached in the First World War, but they are increasing by about one per cent per month, with about one more year to go to be comparable with the same period in the First World War, DeVault said.

Forces tending to increase land values, he explained, are low interest rates from alternative investments, purchase of farms as a hedge against inflation, high farm commodity prices and accumulation of liquid funds at the disposal of farmers and others.

Need To Be Informed

He added that prospective farm purchasers need to be well informed on land values, productivity of the land, soil types, condition, usefulness and adequacy of farm buildings, and adaptable farm enterprises. They should avail themselves of a competent land appraisal service before buying, according to DeVault, who said both credit and appraisal value should be based upon normal yields and normal prices.

The university specialist warned that prospective farmers with little or no farm experience will generally be better off if they postpone the purchase of farms until they have acquired experience as farm tenants or laborers.

Postponement Best

DeVault said that when land values have risen unduly, farmers ordinarily will be better off to postpone purchase of farms and use their accumulated savings to retire debts, purchase war bonds, improve the farm and plant and build up cash reserves.

He added that encouragement should be given to the transfer of farms to bona fide farmers rather than to land speculators.

$10,000 DAMAGES SOUGHT IN LOCAL ACCIDENT SUIT

Charles E. Cross, 13, through his mother, Mrs. Bonita Cross, Young Street, filed suit in circuit court asking $10,000 damages against Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Claus, La Vale. It is claimed that the boy was struck November 23, 1944 at the corner of Park and Emily streets here, by a car owned by the defendants. The declaration contends that the boy suffered a broken leg, multiple cuts and bruises, was permanently injured and suffered physical pain, mental anguish and shock to his nervous system.

J. E. Schindler represents the boy.

Mrs. Thalia Kathryn Jenkins, Cumberland, filed suit for absolute divorce against Charles William Jenkins and asked the right to resume her maiden name, Wonders.

Chief Judge William A. Huster granted a divorce to Mrs. Lillian R. Kolemman, Willow Brook road, from Stephen Kolemman and gave her the right to resume her former name, Bennett.

Mrs. Nellie M. Mohler, Cumberland, filed suit for divorce from Malcolm Mohler.

Membership of V.F.W. Post Soars to 1,350

The membership of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, soared to 1,350 last evening with the announcement by Raymond Reynolds, senior vice commander, that twenty-five veterans of the Second World War have joined the organization since the last meeting two weeks ago.

Twenty-seven delegates were named to the V.F.W. national encampment, the date and place of which is to be announced later.

Reports were given by delegates on the recent Maryland department encampment in Baltimore.

Among the forty-five attending was Dennis W. Allender, 77, of Springfield, W. Va., the oldest member of the local post. He served with the Third United States Volunteers in the Spanish-American war.

Bond Sweepstakes Drawing Is Set For Saturday

Serviceman Is Expected To Pull Winners' Names From Barrel

The name of the winner of the $1,000 first prize in the Allegheny County War Bond Sweepstakes will be drawn from a barrel of Ballot Street Saturday night at 9 o'clock. E. Myers, chairman of the mercantile bureau's war bond committee, announced yesterday.

Arrangements for the drawing of the $1,000 bond winner as well as winners of other prizes were completed at a meeting yesterday morning of the special committee. Myers said the drawings will begin promptly at 9 p. m.

No chances for prizes will be given for bonds purchased after 6 o'clock noon in outlying sections, but five issuing agencies in the business section of Cumberland will continue to sell bonds until 8:30 p. m., a half hour before the drawing is scheduled to start.

Myers listed these five agencies as Lazarus, the Strand, the Montgomery Ward, McCrory's and Rosenbaum.

To Collect Stubs

Mark L. Lazarus, chairman of the mercantile bureau, is making arrangements to collect stubs at noon and they will be deposited in a barrel for the drawing. Changes will be given away in connection with the sales at the five agencies in the business section will be deposited in the barrel in plenty time for the drawing and will be well mixed.

The barrel will be placed on the bed of a large truck loaned for the purpose by the Buchanan Lumber Company and Myers said the winner's name will be drawn in a public drawing motif for the occasion.

Thomas F. Conlon will preside at the master of ceremonies and is scheduled to take his spot on the truck bed at 8 o'clock Saturday night. Conlon expects to select a serviceman from the audience to do the drawing.

Will Broadcast Drawing

From 9 to 9:30 p. m., the drawing will be broadcast over radio station WTBO and the names of the winners also will be posted at a place open to the public.

A total of $25,000 in war bonds will be awarded to sweepstakes winners, with the $1,000 bond the prize. There also will be a $500 bond, a $100 bond, a $50 bond and thirty $25 bonds.

Every purchaser of a bond under the sale ends on Saturday is eligible to get a chance on the prize, whether or not he is a resident of this county. The purchase, of course, must be made in this county. The sweepstakes began on January 25.

John J. McMullen, chairman of the county Seventh War Loan drive campaign, announced last night that the sale of E bonds in the county now is slightly over $1,000,000.

The quota, $1,300,000, is the highest the county has ever had, and McMullen urged every person who possibly can to buy another E bond to help put the campaign over the top by the closing on Saturday.

Chance of a Lifetime

War bonds themselves are a good investment, returning $25 for $10 in ten years, and the county chairman said that is only about one chance in a lifetime that anyone gets a chance to win $1,000 by spending $18.75. He added that this is about the best opportunity ever offered here.

In the meantime, with four days to go, the sale of war bonds at the Celanese plant is only a short short of the plant goal of $375,000.

Up to 5 p. m. yesterday, $38,000 worth of E bonds had been purchased through the Celanese sales agency, a figure representing ninety per cent of the employee quota.

The bond desk in the plant's main office will be open all day today to accommodate holiday bond purchasers.
